

Leading Meetings – Lord Devon's Demise

It's an ongoing challenge to deliver on time and within budget in the face of information overload, multiple schedules, and ever-expanding job accountabilities. But meetings can have a huge impact on success, if we're equipped with an easy-to-implement process that provides clarity and actionable next steps. Eagle's Flight's experiential learning program, Lord Devon's Demise™, provides exactly that. The hands-on, experiential nature of this course takes a historically mundane topic and makes it engaging and eye-opening for those working in today's results-driven world. Participants will return to work able to lead meetings that provide everyone with the information they need and actionable next steps to achieve their goals and drive results.

THE OUTCOME

Individuals will return to work with the ability, tools, and confidence to:

- Filter information accurately and efficiently
- Elicit reasoned and rational input from all involved parties
- Eliminate diversions, trim tangents, and refocus the meeting participants on the objectives at hand
- Make consensual, actionable decisions
- Assign tangible, time-linked tasks and outcomes, as well as follow up on them to confirm progress

THIS ISN'T YOUR ORDINARY LEARNING EXPERIENCE

An Eagle's Flight experiential learning program is unlike anything you or your participants have seen before – it's not another lecture, case study, or role-play. It's an immersive, learn-by-doing experience, where the learning is embedded in an engaging activity. Why do we do this? It allows participants to simply be themselves in the experience, and act as they normally would at work. This is where true behavior change begins.

By personally experiencing the results that come from applying their existing behaviors, participants see the link between their performance in the experience and the changes they need to make to maximize performance at work. A powerful debrief reinforces the lessons learned in the experience and shows how to apply those lessons back on the job. New competencies are developed, learnings are retained, and individuals are more likely and better able to enthusiastically apply their new knowledge to improve their day-to-day performance.

"The use of your experiences to build understanding and conviction is an Eagle's Flight trademark; and one which, in my opinion, is a true differentiator that sets you apart from all others in your field."
